

BASEBALL MEN ARE DICKERING

ADHERENTS OF JOHN N. WARD STILL CONFIDENT.

Robison's Vote Will Elect Him President of the National League, They Say—Ward's Supporters Still Confident.

If a vote had been taken at 9 o'clock last night John N. Ward would have been elected president of the National League of Professional Baseball Clubs. At that hour, after many secret confabs, it was learned that five clubs—New York, Brooklyn, Chicago, Philadelphia and St. Louis—were in line for Ward, while Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and Boston still remained pledged to John A. Heydler. The Ward faction expressed confidence in the support of Stanley Robison, the St. Louis manager, although for publication he said he had not decided in the day that he had not pledged his vote to either Ward or Heydler and that he intended to decide the matter after due consideration of the facts.

Garry Herrmann, the Cincinnati manager, stated that Robison held the key to the situation and that if he cast his vote in favor of Heydler there would be a deadlock. Herrmann also informed an American League man that he had seen Robison for reelection and that a compromise candidate in the person of R. W. Brown, a Louisville newspaper man, might be agreed upon, providing the Ward combination could be persuaded to give Robison the nod.

"If Mr. Ward is elected," said Herrmann last night, "I will yield gracefully, even though I have been in the American League, by the way, is not dictating to us and you can say further that all this talk about a baseball war is nonsense. There will be no baseball war if Mr. Ward is elected."

As baseball magnates have a habit of changing their minds suddenly the caucus held by the Ward men last night may not be regarded as final. Herrmann was sleeping around town until a late hour, in spite of the rain, looking for Robison, who had slipped off to the theatre and at last secured him. Ward's supporters are bitter controversy now raging between certain baseball enemies. Ward held a long conference last night with John T. Brush of the New York club at the Hotel Knickerbocker, but he refused to say a word when he left for his home. John McCraw, who was around, said:

"Ward will be elected. It will be a good thing for the players if he is, as he has grown out of the rough and ready and means to draw salary from the magnates. I have nothing against Mr. Heydler, remember, but I think John M. Ward will be a big help to the National League."

It is a sure thing that Brush, Heydler, Fogel and Murphy will stick to Ward indefinitely. It is a generally accepted fact that Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati is the new owner of the Philadelphia club and that he has picked up more than $400,000 to get the place on the suggestion of G. W. Murphy, who is the sole owner of the Chicago club. In this way the cry of syndicate ball, according to Murphy, will be effectively silenced. It is also a fact that Murphy is of looking at the matter. At any rate Brush, the real man behind the anti-Heydler movement, has four solid votes without Robison and those in the know say that he will be elected.

The attitude of the American League is not so vacillating. President Johnson is still opposed to Ward, and he has a reputation. He has expressed it in a circular letter to the clubs. He has also said that the trouble has arisen because of the connection of Ward, an attorney, with the Chicago club. He has also said that the Chicago club is a legal entity and that the American League is not bound by its contract with the Chicago club.

When President Johnson heard of Ward's facts he occasioned some surprise by stating that it was not his business to interfere in the election of a president. He said that he was a man of few words and that he was not a man of many words. He said that he was a man of few words and that he was not a man of many words.

CURRENT SPORTING GOSSIP

JACK ATKIN, CHAMPION SPRINTER, FOR THE STUD.

Famous Iron Horse Will Not Race Here Again—Trainers Discuss a Trial of Yearlings—Memories of Pop Anson, the Chicagoan and Ed Hanlon Recalled.

Unless Barney Schreiber, the Missouri turfman and breeder, changes his plans, Jack Atkin, the best sprinter in America, will not be seen under saddle here again. Jack Atkin stands alone as a weight carrier in short distance events. He has packed as much weight and won with as much ease as a sprinter in America. He is now resting permanently at James Wadsworth's stock farm up the State, Jack Atkin stands alone as a weight carrier in short distance events. He has packed as much weight and won with as much ease as a sprinter in America.

When the barrier was released Jack Atkin, ridden by Butwell, was practically left at the post, thereby losing nearly a length to the winner, James Wadsworth's stock farm up the State, Jack Atkin stands alone as a weight carrier in short distance events. He has packed as much weight and won with as much ease as a sprinter in America.

Jack Atkin is a typical "iron horse." As a two-year-old he was a trifle unsound and when he began racing he was a trifle unsound. He was a trifle unsound and when he began racing he was a trifle unsound. He was a trifle unsound and when he began racing he was a trifle unsound.

AMERICAN HORSES ABROAD.

Those of Keene and Belmont Have Significantly Failed This Year.

American training methods as illustrated in England this year by A. J. Joyce are superior to those of the English horsemen. The results achieved by Joyce with Mr. Whitney's horses go to prove this. Both Mr. Keene and Mr. Belmont have failed in England this year.

Mr. Keene's year ago divided his stable into two equal numerical strength. Sixteen were sent to Sam Darling's to train in England and the same number were placed in charge of James Rowe in this country. The Keene horses in England were not so successful as in America. GOLF.

A Player Urges an Appropriation for the Public Links—News Notes.

In regard to the need of a practice course for beginners at golf in Van Cortlandt Park, with other suggested improvements, and the state of the greens, a player there for many years broached some new ideas yesterday. "What is needed is an appropriation by the Board of Aldermen for the maintenance of the public golf course at Van Cortlandt Park," said this golfer. "It is the most used and the most abused course in the United States, 1,500 players often driving from the first tee each week end. In the many years of public golf at Van Cortlandt Park the city of New York has never voted a single penny for the upkeep of the course."

Whatever sums have been expended on the course have been granted to the various Park Commissioners of The Bronx for the general improvement of the grounds. Even the laying of pipes to water the putting greens was paid for by an appropriation of this sort.

"Having such an appropriation, whoever might be the Bronx commissioner, would be able to keep the course in proper condition. For one thing he would have a special force of laborers to attend to the work. As it is now, the only laborers available are on the golf course, clearing the roads and the next working on the golf course the day after. Also there should be a policeman to enforce the rules of the course, with power to enforce the rules to govern the players."

The Van Cortlandt veteran, who is a public link, urged that a sub-committee be appointed to study the problem. He said that the city of New York has never voted a single penny for the upkeep of the course. He said that the city of New York has never voted a single penny for the upkeep of the course.
